1. [redacted] who is now working at the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, Department of Justice (LEAA) telephoned to ask our views on a problem encountered in LEAA in connection with the printing of a new edition of the Security Investigator's "bible". He mentioned that, according to his understanding, the original version had been developed through Agency and Justice collaboration. He also said that the Government Printing Office had given a 16-month lead time for the printing of the new edition. I told [redacted] that I was not 25X1A sure we could do anything but I would check and call him back. I talked with Mr. Osborn who recalled that the volume was originally put together 25X1A by [redacted] while [redacted] was an Agency employee on an educational assignment. Mr. Osborn said that the updating should produce a product of interest to the Agency and other Government investigating organizations. He also confirmed that it is in the Agency's interest to aid LEAA where possible. On 20 April I talked again with [redacted] and 25X1A told him that if LEAA could reimburse our costs we would consider printing it for them but would need a copy to size the dollar and time requirements. 25X1A [redacted] subsequently telephoned to confirm that LEAA would reimburse and I gave him the name and telephone number of [redacted] as 25X1A the Agency official to be contacted.

2. Mr. Cord Meyer: [redacted] telephoned to advise that 25X1A he had been called in by Mr. Cord Meyer on the subject of refurbishing his 25X1A office. [redacted] had advised him that he could use GSA catalog furniture or could follow DD/S&T and DD/I and get him special furniture. [redacted] obviously preferring the latter.) [redacted] indicated that DD/S approval 25X1A would be needed for an exception to GSA furnishings.

I spoke separately to [redacted] and 25X1A learned that GSA catalog had been shown to Mr. Meyer some days ago and also confirmed that in addition to special furniture in the offices of DD/I and DD/S&T some had been used in the Executive Director's suite.
